Children as Teachers
No Black Republic
No Socratic Methods
That Noble Experiment

—By Arthur Brisbane—

Copyright, 1928, by Hearst Co.

DR. OSSEA, superintendent of public schools in New York, wisely emphasizes the importance of making children of foreign-born parents home teachers. In 41 public schools children will receive a series of 10 lessons, for teaching English to parents.

An excellent idea, and as old as Divine wisdom. Children have taught their parents, from the beginning. The helpless child, filling the mother with tenderness, has educated the father through the mother, gradually abolishing cannibalism, slavery and serfdom, and will abolish poverty, eventually.

Philanthropy has its origin in the love and influence of children. Lady Godiva, riding naked through the streets, to lighten the poor people's tax burden, and the old male gorilla, club in hand, at the foot of the tree, keeping climbing leopards and snakes from his wife and small baby in the upper branches, show the influence of children on parents.

Read about that gorilla in Drummond's "The Greatest Thing in the World," or his "Ascent of Man."

The books are not at hand, where this is written. The greatest thing is love, and through love children educate their parents.

The British allege that Russia is "planting new-fangled ideas in the minds of South African natives," trying to establish a black republic in Southern Africa, on communist lines.

That was tried, with encouragement from this country, in Liberia, but did not work.

South African natives will not have the slightest understanding of Bolshevist talk. Communism might as well talk of establishing a reproduction of Oxford or Cambridge at the edge of the Congo. To create a republic, you must have the materials of which republics are made.

We are having trouble enough with our experiment here, our nearest approach to republican government, thus far, being an excellent working plutocracy.

William McAndrew, who was superintendent of Chicago schools, leaves for Athens, to spend a year studying Socrates' methods of teaching. His plan, may heaven thwart it, is to revive the Socratic method in modern schools.

Socrates, if Plato describes his method accurately, touched a new peak in boredom. Instead of saying what he had to say, he went around Robin Hood's barn with questions and answers tiresome beyond measure.

Whether or not Socrates was guilty, as alleged, of filling young Greeks with disrespect for the gods, and in spite of the marvelously heroic hemlock-drinking episode, you can hardly blame the Athenians for getting rid of him.

What modern education needs is moving pictures, with condensed verbal elucidation, not Socratic dialogues.

Leaders of prohibition say election means "utter repudiation by the people of all proposals modifying the Volstead Act, or in any way interfering with prohibition as it is."

Prohibition leaders ignore one feature of the campaign, which need not be revived here.

They should not forget that Governor Smith got twice as many votes as any Democratic candidate ever got. There may be some prohibition meaning to that.

Herbert Hoover did not proclaim himself at any time a convert to prohibition as it is. He called it "a noble experiment," meaning, presumably, that it is on trial. He would not call government by the people a noble experiment, because he believes it is an approved and permanent success.

However, the Volstead act will not be changed, or the 18th Amendment either, for many a year.

Meanwhile, those foolish enough to drink bootleg alcohol will lose the lining of their kidneys, and, otherwise, prosperity will continue.

"Truth, amid the alien corn," would be interested in three other Ruths, all in American politics. Three women were elected to Congress, last Tuesday, and all three are named Ruth: Ruth McCormick, daughter of the able Mark Hanna, in Illinois; Ruth Bryan Owen, in Florida; Ruth Pratt, in New York. All three possess intelligence and ability well above the congressional average.

If you believe in omens, name your next daughter Ruth.

SAVES DRIVER TRAPPED IN AUTO UNDER RIVER

Six feet below the surface of the Mystic river in a sedan, Charles Bemburg, 37, of Pearl st., Malden, was rescued today by Justin Power, 28, of Roxbury, who dove from the so-called "Malden bridge" in Charlestown, fully clothed.

A few seconds previous, Bemburg's car, had hurtled through the railing of the bridge in Alford st., and plunged 20 feet into the river depths.

Power, whose home is at 8 Cherokee st., Roxbury, was in the steel shops of the Boston Elevated near by when he heard the crash. He ran to the bridge.

Not pausing to remove a single piece of his clothing, he climbed the rail and dove the 20 feet into the river, whose surface now bore the air bubbles being released from the closed car.

Beneath the river surface, while crowds gathered on the bridge, Power fought, holding his breath, to open the sedan door against the pressure of the water.

He succeeded. Reaching into the car he dragged Bemburg, stunned and nearly unconscious, from the driver's seat, and together the pair shot to the surface.

Willing hands dragged them ashore and Bemburg was rushed to Haymarket relief station, where he was found to be suffering only from immersions and lacerations to scalp and legs.

Bemburg told police he was forced through the bridge railing by a truck, the identity of which he did not know.

MASTER WILL RULE ON CAR OWNERS' CASE

A master, to hear the facts in the attorney-general's effort to force the Car Owners' Mutual Insurance Company to cease operating was appointed today by Judge Pierce in the Supreme Court.

Counsel for the company refused to agree with the State's contention, based on a report by Acting Insurance Commissioner Arthur E. Linnell, that the Car Owners' Company is insolvent.

Linnell asserted in a report to Atty.-Gen. Warner that it was insolvent to the extent of $414,000.

Naming William Harold Hitchcock as master, Judge Pierce said he would expect a report from him within two or three days as he did not consider it would take more than a day to go over the figures on which decision rests.

The company has agreed to refrain from doing business pending decision of the Supreme Court.

A pleasant Fall week-end, with plenty of sunshine and not too low temperatures, was unofficially promised for Greater Boston today.

The prediction was based on an area of cool weather in the Mississippi Valley and Lake regions centering in Wisconsin. There is a storm area in the northwest, however, accompanied by rain and rising temperatures.

The official forecast for Boston and vicinity: Fair tonight and Saturday; slowly rising temperature Saturday; light northwest winds.

After yesterday's rain, with accompanying snow flurries, the mercury dropped through the night, with the official minimum of 34 degrees at 4 and 5 a. m. This figure has been exceeded once this Fall, on October 30, when the official mercury went to 38, and it was equalled on election night.

DALLINGER GAINS 103 VOTES IN CAMBRIDGE

TWO OTHERS DYING AND TWO MISSING

Fire, causing fear of another tragedy, broke out today in the ruins of the Preble Box Toe Company factory in Lynn shortly after death had claimed the 19th victim of the explosion horror.

The flames, spouting from tangled wreckage on the Groveland st. side of the plant, were bravely attacked by a handful of firmen and police who were on duty there.

Ignoring the fact that they might also meet a frightful death if lurking fumes exploded, they seized hand extinguishers and went into the heart of the blaze to put it out.

Fire apparatus was also called on a box alarm and these firemen arrived in time to help tear open six huge bales of cloth which were found burning and end the menace.

The death toll, it is now feared, may reach 23 or more. Nineteen are dead, two workmen are missing and two are dying at Lynn Hospital. Two others at the hospital are in critical condition.

The 19th victim was Louis Rogers, 30, of 50A Rockaway st., Lynn, who died early today. Prior to that the dead had been identified and parts of the body of an 18th unidentified victim had been found.

A third thorough search of the ruins was made under supervision of District Chief Harry Robinson of the Lynn fire department, after which he announced that while it was possible that

SEIZE CAMBRIDGE GIRL IN FORGED CHECK CASE

While attempting to cash a check made out by the man she loved, and whom she believed to be a wealthy young physician, Mrs. Lillian McMann, 21, of Kirkland st., Cambridge, was arrested for attempted larceny by means of a worthless check today.

The arrest of Robert K. Birch, 23, with whom the girl was living, followed shortly afterward, and at police headquarters he exonerated her of any knowledge of the fact that he had forged the check.

Police say Birch, who posed as Dr. J. B. Patterson, is wanted in New York state for forgery and with desertion, while the police of several Massachusetts cities and towns are also seeking him.

"She is guiltless. I am entirely to blame." [illegible] told police. "She believed my [illegible] that I was wealthy and that [illegible] be a good wife for a young physician. ODDS ON GAME SHIFT AFTER PENN WORKOUT

By JOE CASHMAN.

University of Pennsylvania's football squad worked out at the Stadium today in preparation for the battle with Harvard on the morrow and the betting on the game shifted at once.

The Crimson had been a slight favorite since the first of the week, but one look at the Quakers convinced the experts that the game should be a seven-money proposition, and so it has become.

Each of the visitors—there are 35 of them in all—looks like a real football player, and Harvard will have to be at the very best to turn in a victory.

After the Stadium workout, the Penn squad was whisked away to the Belmont Springs Country Club, and at one time Chairman Brooks left the bench conference and talked with him.

When the conference ended Atty. Beckford of defense counsel addressed the court and said: "On behalf of the defendant I now waive a motion for a new trial."

Judge Cox, addressing Cero in the prisoner's cage, "Do you consent to that motion?"

Cero, through Interpreter Alfred Savoie: "Yes."

Judge Cox then handed Atty. Beckford a paper and Beckford took it to the cage. Cero stood up and signed the waiver.

Judge Cox conferred for a moment then with Secretary MacDonald and announced:

CERO REMANDED.

"This prisoner may be remanded." Cero, apparently confused and last as apparently eager to please, even if not understanding, nodded his head vigorously and answered, "Yes," in English. He was taken back to state prison to await outcome of the Governor's Council meeting.

Only in rare instances have men been saved from a death cell in Massachusetts as anywhere except during trial. But Cero's chance came through the lips of the girl.

Handcuffed to State Prison Officer Frank Lanagan, the prisoner convicted of murder was taken from the prison to court in a taxicab. Accompanying were Deputy Warden James Bissett and Prison Clerk Edward Darling.

The party left the prison at 9:30 a. m. and the taxi pulled up at the Somerset entrance of the courthouse less than 25 minutes later.

ARRIVES IN COURT

Cero was led in through the rear yard gate, under the archway and through back corridors into the courtroom, where he was taken in charge by Deputy Sheriff William T. McDermott and five court officers.

A heavy guard was about the courtroom under direction of First Deputy Sheriff Daniel A. Whelton.

Cero was placed in the prisoner's cage and as he sat down he smiled and nodded at his brother, Genaro Cero, who, almost single-handed, corroborated the key evidence in the case.

The courtroom was crowded, but Miss Rossino was not in evidence. It was understood she was talking with Judge Cox in his chambers.

COUNSEL CONFERENCE

Immediately on Cero's being placed in the cage, his new counsel, George P. Beckford and Thomas H. Brennahan, consulted with Genaro Cero, even though William E. Scharton was Cero's counsel of record, walked over to the cage and began a whispered conversation.

The man who originally was scheduled to walk to death some time after midnight last Monday appeared at ease and smiled brightly into the faces of the lawyers as he made response to their remarks.

Cero was clad in a black suit, white shirt, black bow tie, white sox and black shoes. A white handkerchief showed a corner out of his breast pocket.

CERO'S AFFIDAVIT

Among papers filed in court in the case today was an affidavit made by Cero in the death house. It was couched in legal language and reads:

"On June 11, 1927, at 4 p. m. while walking on Prince st. with Samuel Gallo, for whom the defendant had worked, walking in an ordinary way, Gallo suddenly drew a revolver from his pocket and shot a man unknown to the defendant, but whom he subsequently learned was Joseph Fantasia; that he had never seen Fantasia before and he did not know him, nor did he know the woman who accompanied Fantasia.

"Because he was with Gallo he was afraid and ran away; that he was subsequently arrested, tried and [illegible] guilty; that his attorney was hired and paid by Gallo; that he was assured by Gallo that he would be freed if he said nothing about Gallo's connection with the shooting; knowing that he was innocent of the crime, he said nothing about Gallo's connection with the shooting.

NEVER KNEW FANTASIA

"He affirms and says he never knew or saw Fantasia or the woman who was with him prior to the shooting; that he had no cause to do Fantasia any harm; that he was not engaged by anyone to harm Fantasia, but he has since been informed and believes that Gallo and Fantasia had quarreled over the same woman and that that was the cause of the shooting of Fantasia by Gallo.

"And your defendant again reaffirms that he did not shoot Fantasia and did not know or suspect that any such event was to take place until it actually happened."

WALK PAST CHAIR

If the Governor's Council should grant Cero a respite, Deputy Warden Hoggett, on receipt of papers, will go to the death house and remove Cero out the back way and across the prison yards to the Cherry Hill section of the prison, where he will remain until within 10 days of the expiration of the reprieve, when he will be again placed in the death house.

The removal of Cero from the death house to Cherry Hill will take place after all the prisoners have been locked up for the night. This generally is about 8 o'clock, or shortly after 4:30 o'clock, and between that time and 6 o'clock the removal will take place. Cero in leaving the death house will walk past the chair, which will be covered with a canvas.

New York, Nov. 9 (INS)—Testimony by James L. White, special undercover dry agent brought here from Columbus, O., to aid in drying up the night club belt, in federal court, revealed what agents drink and how the Government foots the bill.

At the trial of Luigi Cardi and four employes of Luigi's Greenwich Village restaurant on charges of violating the dry law, White told how he paid $1 for a single drink and $12 a quart for cut whiskey.

White said he sampled various whiskies, beer, cordials and cocktails in a single evening of evidence gathering and remained sober.

HILL, BEATEN BY DEMOCRAT FOR CONGRESS, TO FIGHT

Baltimore, Nov. 9 (INS)—John Philip Hill, defeated Republican candidate in the third congressional district, announced today he would contest the election of his Democratic opponent, Representative Vincent L. Palmisano, and carry his fight to the House, if necessary.

In the original count Hill was defeated by 321 votes. He demanded a recount. His opponent picked up two votes in the recount. Hill said he will produce affidavits charging fraud and purchase of votes.

BOY DIES IN FIRE FOR SISTER

RESCUES VICTIM

Justin Power, Roxbury hero, who leaped into Mystic river, opened door of sunken auto and rescued imperilled driver.

"Oh, oh, oh! My little baby sister!"

And it required Arthur Blaney, ten years, pushing into the screaming recesses of the Blaney home at Greenwood st., Lynn, to be told one of the victims of the explosion.

"We tried to stop him. We tried to catch him, but we couldn't. It would have been suicide to follow him. And the heat, with its weird and excited we didn't know what to do."

Mrs. Fred J. Mitchell of 10 Broadline st., Lynn, in whose home the surviving four Blaney children took yesterday, said as she told this story today: "As they [illegible] we knew that the Blaney boy lost his life trying to save his six months-old sister, Harriet.

ADORED SISTER

But half an hour before Arthur had been twiddling the fingers and toes of the baby sister he adored and playfully tickling them as he recited that trick little piggy went to the market and this little piggy stayed at home.

He loved his infant, Mrs. Mitchell said today. He spent all his time with her and admiring her. He loved her softness and sweetness and he visibly aghast to rescue her.

They found its charred body beside the cradle in which the infant, too, was found dead.

Relatives today stepped in and took the remaining Blaney children, two boys, Norman and Harry, Jr., going to an aunt's house in Lynn, the two girls, Lillian and Ella, starting anew in the warm surroundings of a kind uncle in Marblehead.

NEWS KEPT AWAY

"I will mother Til come to the hospital to see her Sunday," 12-year-old Lillian told Mrs. Mitchell as she said good-bye yesterday. The poor kid doesn't know that not only was her mother's life snuffed out, but that she lost three other sisters and brothers and that her father's life is despaired of.

She went to Marblehead believing that most of her family were injured by the explosion, but not killed. She'll learn soon enough.

St. Paul's Methodist Episcopal Church on Union st., Lynn, housed and fed 57 made homeless by the fire. Today relatives in various parts of the city took them home until financial succor is given them.

Everett Lewis, 13, who was caught in a trap, will be buried tomorrow noon from the church, Rev. Dr. Harold Hicker officiating.

He is to be the first of the list of victims to be buried.

Incidentally, Jack was just a mongrel.

4300 Homeless in Mt. Etna Lava Flood

Rome, Nov. 9 (AP)—Though the town of Mascali has been buried under the flow of molten lava from Mt. Etna, latest reports from the scene of the great eruption indicate the speed of the current has slackened and that the eruption itself is declining. The lava is nearly 300 yards away from the railway between Catania and Messina, and at the present rate it would be probably 30 or 40 hours before it reached that line. Efforts are being made to divert the stream into the sea and construct a temporary railway across the threatened territory so that railroad communication will not be shut off.

Figures received here say that 4300 persons are homeless and are being cared for by neighboring villages. Measures are already underway to provide work for the farm laborers. The Pope has sent 25,000 lire for relief of the sufferers, and the Fascist has added 20,000 lire as a first installment of the relief fund.

The village of Nunziata is believed to be out of the danger zone, as it is protected by a high ridge from the lava flow, although a few houses in the outlying district have been swept away.

The possibility is considered of a new danger if the three branches of the lava stream moving toward the sea should unite along the front, which is about a mile in extent. It is estimated the flow has destroyed 250 acres of intensively cultivated land, which means damage of 15,000,000, roughly $700,000.

This does not take into account the town of Mascali, with its houses and sheds filled with the recently gathered grape crop, or the loss of forests.

25 FLEE FROM SUSPICIOUS FLAMES

Fire of suspicious origin swept through two blocks of apartments at Nos. 6 and 8 Clarendon st., South End, early today, driving 25 occupants to the street in their night clothing.

Firemen of Ladder 13 smashed through a window on the top floor of the four-story brick building and carried Mrs. Elizabeth McPherson, 56, down the ladder to safety.

Other tenants were aroused by John Kelly, night watchman in a nearby theater, who rushed through the building with Patrolman Frank Freeley after the alarm had been sounded.

Dense clouds of smoke rolled through the building as the two men groped through the halls. On the second floor they broke down the door of a room occupied by Frank McKenna and after leading him to the street returned to aid other tenants.

Mrs. Sylvia Cook, who was rescued from a front room at No. 8, told firemen that she was unable to find Mrs. Emmeline St. George, tenant of a rear apartment, among the group of people who had been taken out.

Acting Deputy Chief Quigley ordered a thorough search of the woman's apartment but an hour later word arrived that she had been seated at the home of a friend.

The fire started in the cellar and worked its way up the back stairs and through the roof. Fire officials announced that an investigation would be held. Damage was estimated at $15,000.

'PAPA' WEEPS AS BAY STATE GIRL SCORES

New York, Nov. 9—In floods of warm, amber spotlight, with "Bravos!" ringing in her ears, Clara Jacobo, once a mill worker in Lawrence, Mass., stepped up last night into "her world," that golden world which she had struggled for nearly 15 years—the stage of the Metropolitan Opera House.

She made her debut in "Il Trovatore," whose tuneful arias she could sing at an age when most children are learning kindergarten ditties. And the demonstration that followed after she had sung with Giovanni Martinelli the old familiar "Miserere" —which she used to sing all by herself as a child, both soprano and tenor—could have left no doubt in the minds of her old friends from Lawrence that she was a success.

From an inconspicuous seat in the gallery a sturdy little old man, with quick brown eyes and drooping gray mustachios, listened intently to every note uttered by the new dramatic soprano of the Metropolitan Opera Company, leaning far forward to watch her as she came out again and again at the close to take her curtain calls. Neatly dressed he was, in dark blue serge, with an old-fashioned red seal dangling from his watch chain.

"PAPA" IN LIMELIGHT.

Overcome with shyness and a bit confused, he appeared back stage while the new prima donna was posing for pictures with Martinelli and Madame Mattennauer and Tunise.

"Papa!" shouted a chorus of Italian voices, and he was dragged up to a place by her side—in the klieg lights.

one or both of the missing men had been cremated, he was himself positive their remains were not in the debris.

Those missing are William Robertson, address uncertain, and Jerome Green of Brookline st. Officials believe Green was working elsewhere, but cannot account for him definitely.

Robertson is the greater mystery to their eyes. He worked at the plant through Wednesday and as far as is known must have reported for work yesterday.

Investigators representing city, state and county were at the scene of the wreckage regarding the cause and where the blame should be placed.

The United States government launched an inquiry into the tragedy today when Byron J. Cully, assistant engineer of the chemical division of the Department of Agriculture, was instructed to investigate the circumstances.

One of the subjects of investigation is a report that there had been a defective electric switch in the plant which an outside electrician had fixed after employes complained that it was shooting an arc of flame.

This electrician, according to the report, advised that the switch be placed outside in a weather box and warned that if this were not done, the whole place might go up in flames.

Statements made by John Coleman, 37, of Adams st., Lynn, one of the employes who is reported dying at Lynn Hospital, indicate that a flaming cigar butt thrown into a barrel of waste celluloid chips started a puff of fire which in turn fanned and caused the blast.

Other theories have not been abandoned, but Coleman's story impressed his questioners. He said Louis Puffer, factory superintendent, who was among the killed, was the smoker.

FIND PARTS OF BODY

Coleman said he was told this by two other workmen who had hospital cots on either side of him and who died. A nurse, Miss Lavinia Costello, who did heroic work with the injured, said she heard a victim say the same but she could not say which man it was.

In Empire st., 200 yards from the blasted factory, a pedestrian made a grisome find. In the street lay the hand of a man. Near it was part of a forearm, while a short distance farther away was a section of the sidewall of a human chest. The victim may be one of the missing men, Green or Robertson, in the opinion of the authorities.

Fire Marshal George C. Neal said today his inquest would be held as soon as his investigator, Inspector James Grady, reports.

Harry Blaney, Sr., whose wife and five children were killed, four other children escaping death, is in a very weak condition at Lynn Hospital, but he is given a chance of recovery by physicians.

Mrs. Anna Gallagher, 51, who jumped from a window of the Blaney home on Groveland st., to escape the fire, may recover, but the hospital staff consider it doubtful.

Seek Cause of Fire

No hope is held for David McCoy, 19, of Marianna st., Lynn, and John Coleman, who, at the time he made his statement regarding the cause, was fully expected to recover.

In support of Coleman's story, three others, Israel Clements, Everett Lewis and James Wright, all now dead—are reported to have said they saw the superintendent arrive at the factory smoking a cigar.

The parents of Clements, however, think their son, Israel, as saying that it was a cigarette, not a cigar. Israel Clements was the outstanding hero of the tragedy. He escaped by a window and then went back to rescue his brother, William. Both are dead.

Assistant District Attorney Edward F. Flynn of Essex County said today he questioned Coleman and others and considered it an outrage to "saddle the blame on a dead man." Flynn said neither Wright nor Coleman saw Puffer or anybody else smoking. He is seeking the cause elsewhere.

State Fire Inspector Grady said Wright told him the fire started in a barrel of celluloid waste and the employes tried to extinguish it, and Reserve Officer John F. Binner told of seeing a small fire about the size of a bonfire before suddenly the entire building "breathed forth like a furnace."

Mayor Bauer of Lynn has requested State authorities for a complete list of all companies having permits to store explosives. These permits are handled entirely by the State, and, according to Bauer, the local authorities have no information of this nature. He intends to take steps to isolate such factories.

State police reported finding cigarette stubs in one section of the factory which was not so badly wrecked as the rest.

A warning about the handling of celluloid used in making shoe parts was voiced as long ago as March 6, 1923, it was pointed out today by Fire Capt. John H. Day of Lynn, who told the Chamber of Commerce:

"Celluloid, one of the most dangerous explosive materials, is being carelessly handled in wood heel factories, as well as shoe factories where wood heels are made."

Rebuke From Bauer

Capt. Day was arguing for a large fire prevention division of the fire department. A thinly veiled reprimand was administered soon afterward by Mayor Bauer, who remarked, in connection with a rejection of an appeal for higher pay for firemen, that "officials who go around the city trying to talk themselves into jobs with higher pay may find themselves out of work altogether."

It was reported today that the celluloid scraps from which the fire and explosion may have started were in a wooden barrel.

Mrs. Lillian Blaney and her five children will be buried from the Goodrich Funeral Home, Washington st., Sunday, at 2 p. m., with burial at Waterside Cemetery, Marblehead.

Joseph McCarthy will be buried from his home, 7 Hosford pl., at 8 Saturday morning with a requiem mass at St. Joseph's and interment at St. Joseph's Cemetery. Saturday afternoon John Wilson's funeral will take place at 3 at Rhodes Memorial Chapel, Pine Grove Cemetery, and Alfred P. Harris will also be buried at Pine Grove after services at 2 o'clock at Zion Baptist Church.

Other funerals tomorrow are those of Charles R. Mitchell at 1 o'clock at Donovan funeral parlors, School st.; Percy A. Smith at the same hour at Goodrich funeral home, and the Clements brothers at 2 p. m., at Bethel M. E. Church. Burial in all these cases will be at Pine Grove.

These arrangements make six burials of explosion victims at Pine Grove Cemetery tomorrow afternoon. On Monday funeral services will be held for John Crowder and Louis Puffer, and on Tuesday for James Wright. Louis Rogers will be buried at Pine Grove Sunday, services taking place at 2 p. m. at the Church of the Incarnation.

HEARST PLAN IS PRAISED AT DINNER

Los Angeles, Nov. 9—Hollywood gave distinguished visiting journalists from Great Britain a typically spontaneous and warm hearted welcome.

In the banquet room of the Ambassador Hotel, with the flags of Great Britain and the United States mingling, the visiting editors and writers were first given a taste of Hollywood hospitality at the dinner table. Later, after the brief and informal addresses, the guests participated gayly in the dance, which brought the affair to a close.

The banquet and dance, entirely informal, was tendered in honor of the British writers and journalists by the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences.

Douglas Fairbanks, as president of the Academy, presided. As he stood under two large photographs one of King George and the other of President Coolidge, he proposed a toast to the leaders of the two great nations.

HEARST IS SPEAKER

The visitors and guests promptly responded.

Gus Edwards sang a song he had written in honor of the distinguished visitors with the willing assistance of the notable gathering.

Then William De Mille, vice-president of the Academy, was introduced as the chairman. In witty fashion he welcomed the visitors to Hollywood and the United States, pointed out that their presence would serve further to link the two nations in friendship and introduced the various speakers.

Among the principal speakers of the evening was William Randolph Hearst.

Mr. Hearst said in part:

"I like the truth-telling, truth-tolerating qualities of England and America.

"I like the liberty in England and America, and the liberality in England and America.

"I like the fairness and frankness and the broad-mindedness and the open-mindedness of the two peoples.

"In fact, we are very much the same people.

"We have very largely the same manners and customs, the same ideals, the same objectives.

FOR UNIVERSAL LANGUAGE

We love freedom, we love peace.

"We want to turn from thought of war and preparation for war to plans for peace and progress and prosperity for ourselves and for all the world.

"We do not want to disturb any nation in the world, and we do not want any nation to disturb us.

"We want time and opportunity to devote ourselves not to savagery, but to the better and finer things of life.

"We want universal education; we want a universal language, so the people of the world will understand each other and stop misunderstanding each other.

"We want to proceed onward and upward to a higher civilization, and a better realization of the brotherhood of man.

"And that is the reason I am for a co-operative union of English-speaking peoples.

"Furthermore, my friends, I believe that if we all work for this object, we can speedily accomplish it; and that is what I think we should all determine this very night in friendship and fraternity to do."

HEARST PLAN PRAISED

Cecil B. De Mille, film producer and director, followed Mr. Hearst. He again welcomed the visitors to California and expressed the wish of the academy to make the stay of the Britons just as agreeable as possible.

"The motion picture people and the men of the press," he said, "are brothers in the task of uniting the world because they are two great mediums for bringing about that end are the press and the films.

"Mr. Hearst's reference to the need for a universal language is in a way met by the motion pictures," he continued, "which form a universal language and are therefore important in the work of turning the world's attention to peace."

Alan Pitt Robbins of the London Times and Sir George Armstrong of the Daily Chronicle group responded in behalf of the visitors.

Both expressed their warm appreciation of the welcome accorded them both in Hollywood and elsewhere on their tour through the United States, and both declared that the glorious reports they had heard about Hollywood while en route to California had not done justice to the here-truth.

"I would like to say," Sir George concluded, "that I was continually impressed by Mr. Hearst's speech and was deeply gratified by the sympathy and understanding he expressed."

Others who spoke were Louis B. Mayer, Harry Warner of Warner Brothers and Commodore J. Stuart Blackton, motion picture pioneer.

Mr. Mayer informed the Britishers that England had not yet given the world her share of great films and that the United States would welcome the English contribution to the films with happiness.

LAUGH OVER RULING ON COAST PENALTY

Hoboken, N. J., Nov. 9—Although it is against the law to engage in the liquor traffic between the three-mile and 12-mile limits off the coast of the United States, there is no penalty for the offense, according to a ruling of U. S. Commissioner Stanton.

Stanton's decision resulted in his freeing three men who had been charged with a suspicion of smuggling liquor. The men were arrested outside of the three-mile limit, and Stanton said that although the 12-mile limit had been established by agreement no provision had been made in the agreement for punishment of those arrested between it and the three-mile limit.

USELESS CLUB PROVES DISAPPOINTING, SAYS BETTY ALDEN

Robert Farwell Chatfield-Taylor Takes New York Girl as Bride

WHEREFORE art thou, bright young men of the Useless Club? Where are the gay parties that only yesteryear glinted on the autumn's calendar and illumined that same overburdened season with shafts of light like unto an aurora borealis. The young men of this small and intimate coterie appear to be neglecting the time and the opportunity. No affair of any sort, gay or giddy, is planned by the Useless Club, and so choice and popular debutantes may sigh in vain for a card to a dinner, a dance, a supper party or a special fete done by the Useless Club with due regard for the motto, "Eat drink and be merry."

SEVERAL seasons ago, back in those years when war memories were still fresh, the Useless Club flourished. Just when certain second lieutenants left from the war felt it incumbent on themselves to band together—and assert their known superiority to gilt-edged colonels and two-starred generals. Thus the Useless Club had its beginning. "Hilarity" was the club's motto, and suddenly its members bloomed as hosts par excellence at small and merry dances, to which cards were eagerly sought and which had a feminine guest list pruned to a nicety. Would that the club functioned this season—when frivolity's peak is accomplished via the innocuous debutante ball.

Mrs. Frederic Stone Mrs. Clarence R. Edwards

Chat for a moment in the interests of the Disabled Ex-Service Men's Exchange, their pet hobby.

MRS. HENDRICKS HALLET WHITMAN of Union Park st., and Belgravia has a pretty new sister-in-law. Her brother, Robert Farwell Chatfield-Taylor, Chicagoan of the topmost rank, takes unto himself a wife, a New Yorker, and so leaves a-sighing certain mammas in the Windy City, who would have welcomed wide-armed to her family circle Chatfield-Taylor himself and the Chatfield-Taylor place and prestige. The young Lochinvar, out of the West, browsed in Gotham fields, however, chose for himself a fair flower, and carried her off to the Little Church Around the Corner to have the nuptial ties knotted irrevocably.

BOSTONIANS who belong with the North Shore set met the new Mrs. Chatfield-Taylor when she was still Miss Valborg Palmer, only so recently at the Willowdale races. They found her immensely likable with her smart frocks and bright eyes, and air of great distinction. Boston bachelors of the topmost rank cast longing eyes in her direction, but Cupid intended other things for her than a place with Boston's social autocrats. As a Chatfield-Taylor she is supremely placed in Chicago's Mayfair, her spouse being a son to Hobart Chatfield-Taylor.

MANIFOLD are that gentleman's claims to distinction. Azure-hued fluid runs in his veins. As author, editor and diplomat he is variously gifted. Foreign nations have loaded him with decorations until as chevalier of this and that order he wears many ribbons grateful royal persons have awarded him. Mrs. Whitman follows in pater's foot steps in one regard, at least. She is, by way of being an author herself, turning her talents to play writing, and doing it with dash and aplomb. Her latest venture into the puritan that once were aristocratic, to reclaim tall brick houses in outlying squares to a Sutton pl. attractiveness, is only another phase of the Chatfield-Taylor individuality.

TO rustle the leaves on the Chatfield Taylor Palmer family trees mater and pater to the bride are Mrs. Valbor Palmer, and Harry E. Palmer of New York. And Chicagoan belonging on the Chatfield Taylor side are Mr. and Mrs. Robert McGann and the Farwell Winstons. The former Miss Grace McGann, now Mrs. William Whitney, also is in the family circle, and has a Boston acquaintance among the younger set through being the guest here of the tall and handsome Mrs. Whitman afore mentioned.

DEBUTANES in velvets, debutantes in satins, debutantes in shimmering bridal white, debutantes so chic and trim in sports clothes parade next week at the Hotel Copley-Plaza for sweet charity, of course, as well as for the delight it gives a slender young thing to strut across a stage in Fashion's latest conceits. Annually the probationary Junior Leaguers come out in force to wear pretty things and so make the Fashion Show for the Florence Crittenton Bazaar

EDUCATORS HONOR MAN MAYOR THOMPSON 'FIRED'

Washington, Nov. 9 (INS)—William McAndrew, formerly superintendent of schools at Chicago, today was awarded a life membership in the National Education Association for his services to the organization.

Mr. McAndrew clashed with Mayor Thompson of Chicago last year, the controversy finally being ended by the Chicago board of education March 21, when his connection with the schools was severed.

CLARA JACOBO WINS IN LONG STRUGGLE

once a grocer in Lawrence and now a comber in a woolen mill, forgot in those glowing moments on the stage of the Metropolitan Opera House all the English he had ever known. He could speak only Italian—and not much of that.

Dr. N. F. de Cesare, childhood friend of Clara Jacobo, who had come down from Lawrence in a delegation headed by Mayor and Mrs. Michael A. Landers, tried to explain how he felt.

HE HELPED HER

"He took that seat away up in the gallery," Dr. De Cesare said, "because he was afraid he might get emotional—perhaps shed a few tears—and he didn't want to disturb those around him. In the gallery, he thought, it might not matter so much.

"You see, Clara's mother—who believed in her long before he did and persuaded him finally to let her go to Italy to study—died only a short time after Clara went away. And tonight he's heartbroken because she isn't be here.

"When once he made up his mind to help Clara become a great singer, Mr. Jacobo went all the way, all right. He's been a wonderful father to her and to all his children. Worked hard all his life—I guess you can see that."

Betty Alden's Comment on Society

a thing of beauty and a special privilege to the onlooker.

MISS VIRGINIA TAYLOR, in a black velvet street costume, will delight the eye that dotes on richness of fabric and svelt lines. Madame la Mode says lighten the velvet coat frock with a suggestion of rhinestone brilliance, tuck a scented flower into the lapel and add a snug helmet chapeau to create an ensemble worth gushing over. Some bud will wear such a costume to luncheon or for twilight dancing and feel that she is beautifully turned out.

MISS CAROL SMITH walks demurely a bride in soft pearl velvet and misty tulle, carrying a bride bouquet of lilies and orchids. Miss Nancy Adams, who came out last season and knows her way about in the young set world, looks smart for le sport, a coat costume such as the individual debutante is wearing this season for midday and afternoon affairs—and looking fetching as can be therein.

MASSACHUSETTS LEAGUE OF GIRLS' CLUBS can count itself fortunate to have Miss Cornelia Otis Skinner come to town to do her character sketches at the league's annual benefit. Last season a crowded ballroom at the Hotel Statler acclaimed Miss Skinner, and filled the league pocketbook. This season something of the sort is expected to happen again, and smart women whose names give a sponsor list special seintillation are patronesses—Mrs. Larz Anderson, Mrs. John Lowell, Mrs. Robert Gould Shaw, 2d; Mrs. Phillip Saltonstall, Mrs. Nathaniel Thayer, Mrs. Walter Tufts, Jr., Mrs. Barrett Wendell, Mrs. George Crompton, Mrs. Ralph Hornblower, Mrs. Abraham Koshland, Miss Frances Curtis and Miss Julia Prendergast. The benefit is December 3.

W. T. GRANT
Founder of the W. T. Grant Co.

When I opened the first store in Lynn about all I had to do was to supply bargains; but now it's different and more difficult.

I used to buy everything from sheet music to yard goods—but now we have many buyers—mostly young fellows—who have me "beat a mile." They have to be style experts as well as buyers of the biggest values.

They go direct to the biggest mills in the world. These mills wouldn't sell to me when I was starting. Our buyers even go into the foreign countries and speak the languages of these countries. I used to have to buy odd lots and samples to get bargains. Now they get new, fresh goods, made to order. The values they get surprise even me — and after 22 years of value giving I'm hard to surprise. My hat is off to our buyers. Take it from me—they are really working for you.

That's their idea of fun—getting you something unusually good,—and getting it for you at prices lower than you usually have to pay.

DEMOCRATS ARE FACING HARD TASK TO SAVE THE PARTY

By GEORGE R. HOLMES,
International News Service Staff Correspondent.

New York, Nov. 9—With the turbulent, breath-taking 1928 election passing into history, and straggling returns continuing to emphasize the magnitude of the Republican sweep, the practical politicians who run things in both parties in between elections began to come out of the storm cellars today and take stock of the future.

There is not much disagreement among the leaders of either party as to what must be done, but there is vast disagreement on how it must be accomplished. And these differences of opinion provide the fuel that will keep the political fires burning until the next general election two years hence.

For the Republicans the task immediately ahead is that of serving to consolidate their amazing gains, particularly in the South and border states that contributed to their victory in such startling fashion.

The Republicans have broken the Solid South to bits and run up majorities in the border states such as few of them believed possible. Oklahoma went 100,000 Republican; Kentucky, 175,000; Missouri, 180,000; little Maryland, 30,000, and so on. Now the task is to hold them.

TASK FOR DEMOCRATS

For the Democrats the task ahead is equally clear, but tremendously difficult. The Democrats have to reconstruct their party. Their job involves the mending of fences that not only went down in the Hoover tide, but which in some cases were almost completely obliterated.

They lost part of the South, all of the West, all of the border states and most of the East, in nearly every case by smashing figures.

The Democratic task is complicated, too, by the bitter recrimination that always follows in the wake of a political debacle such as Tuesday witnessed.

Survey of editorial comment in southern newspapers reveal that the south already is yelling for the head of John Raskob, the "big business" chairman of the party, who was personally selected by Governor Smith to run his campaign. The demand of the party organ for Raskob's head is only a reflection of the opinion of leading southern Democrats.

The full force of this demand is not going to crystallize until the end of Monday in December when the pre-lame duck session of the 70th Congress assembles in Washington. Meeting under one roof again all of the divergent political thought of the country's

RASKOB IS BLAMED.

Raskob is being blamed even more than Governor Smith himself for the Democratic holocaust. Perhaps the reason for that may be that some 15,000,000 or 16,000,000 people voted for Alfred E. Smith while only 7,000,000 voted for John J. Raskob of a man who polled that many dollar votes cannot be gainsaid. It is worried by those opposed to him, particularly which another national meeting is held.

Whether "Al" Smith is going to see his friend ousted to appease the demands of the indignant southerners before the appointed time when a defeated national chairman always lays down his office remains to be seen. Governor Smith has a habit of being loyal to his friends, and John J. Raskob is one of his closest.

The road immediately ahead of the Democratic leadership is a rough one, and is filled with broken glass. The reorganization must be kept from getting too bitter if the party is to reconstruct itself in time to again do battle with some prospect of success.

But the Republicans have their problems, too, and their differences as well.

Out in the progressive northwest, every Republican insurgent was reelected, and while the Hoover sweep was so tremendous that the House can be controlled in comfort, not so of the Senate. There, the insurgents will continue to hold the balance of power—and perhaps embarrass the new administration.

But the real problem of the Republican leadership is the manner in which the Republican gains in the south and border states are to be consolidated. Is the Republican party in the south to be lily-white?

If so, many of the old organization leaders in those states must be discarded as an inviting gesture to the thousands of "anti-South Democrats" who bolted the party of their fathers and made possible the astounding Republican victory.

O. P. HAS TROUBLES

And if the Republican party is to be made "lily white" in the south, as it be safely done without alienating the great negro vote of the north, which is predominantly Republican?

There's going to be a lot of fighting over that during the months immediately ahead.

Both parties have their problems. The Democrats are admittedly in a bad way, but, at that, they appear to have hit rock bottom, and any movement in the future is bound to be upward. The pendulum swung against them Tuesday just about as far as it could.

In every case in recent years when the Democrats have been annihilated in the presidential elections, it has followed that they bounced back in the off-year congressional elections with tremendous gains. It was true in 1922, following the Harding landslide of 1920, and it was true two years ago following the Coolidge sweep of 1924.

The Democrats find a crumb of comfort in this aspect of the situation. They find additional comfort in the enormous popular vote that Governor Smith polled. As one leader put it:

"No party that recommands the support of 16,000,000 voters can be said to be dead or even dying."

G.O.P. PROBLEM IN SOUTH UP TO HOOVER

Stanford University, Cal., Nov. 9 (AP)—Assessing the effect of the tidal wave which has swept him into the presidency, Herbert Hoover today said victory has brought him new problems quite apart from those he must consider as the Chief Executive.

These are political in character, and are the basis of his party the decision as to dealing with them rests with him. Foremost among them is the future organization south of the Mason and Dixon line.

The President-elect has been fully aware of the factors contributing to the political revolution forces—a revolution which surprised him as much as it did the country as a whole.

PLAN TO HOLD GAINS.

Latest returns show that in many of the states which threw their electoral votes to him, the Republican trend extended into the congressional field, with the election of candidates of his own party in districts which heretofore have been strongly Democratic.

One of the high hopes Hoover entertained during the campaign was that national lines would be broken down, and consequently the friends look upon it as only a natural consequence of the election that he should take steps to consolidate as far as possible the ground that has been gained.

CHAFES UNDER GUARD.

This division brought about changes in the character of state organizations, and it is interpreted that the work undertaken within the limited time permitted during the campaign will be extended. Just how this will be done is for future determination.

Like most other men who have been elected to the presidency, he finds it a little difficult to submit to constant watch by Secret Service agents all the time he is away from home, and to have his residence constantly under guard. Heretofore, Hoover has roamed the hills about his home unattended and has delighted in golfing away with Mrs. Hoover for an hour or more of automobile driving unattended.

But now, as he ear sets out for a run over the President-elect's favorite driveway, another car bearing the Secret Service men trails closely behind.

LAST-MINUTE FIGHT TO SAVE SLAYER OF CHILD

Columbus, O., Nov. 9 (INS)—Another last-minute fight to save the life of Stanley Hoppe, confessed "Bobcat" slayer, from the electric chair in which he is sentenced to die tonight, was being waged here today by Elden H. Young, Hoppe's attorney.

Although previous pleas have failed, the board of clemency has yet to decide what recommendation it will make to Governor Donahey. It will make to Governor Donahey sentence, while Hoppe's attorney maintains the petition, "Act of Grace" filed Tuesday in Supreme Court automatically stays sentence until the motion is decided.

Complete Vote for President in Bay State

The complete vote of Massachusetts for President, Governor and Senator, was:

Hoover 711,878; Smith 793,330. Plurality 21,702.

Governor: Allen (R.), 734,617; Cole (D.), 749,375. Plurality, 23,241.

Senator: Young (R.), 693,259; Walsh (D.), 809,092. Plurality, 115,833.

HITS HYDRANT; STARTS FLOOD

Winthrop st., Hyde Park and Hyde Park ave. were flooded today when Thomas A. Lambert of 30 Norton st., Hyde Park, backed a truck against a hydrant in front of 44 Winthrop st.

The hydrant was broken off and a geyser of water shot into the air, only to be shut off a short time later.

Hoover the Man Who's a Hero to His Butler

London, Nov. 9 (AP)—The Daily Mail said today that among Herbert Hoover's friends in London no one probably was more pleased with his election than John Dunn, who acted as a butler for the President-elect in London 14 years ago.

Dunn, who has sent his congratulations to Hoover, was quoted as saying that Hoover was one of the "whitest, kindest men ever born."

Dunn recalled that when Hoover lived in Kensington he used to send an automobile to fetch the Dunn children to play with the Hoover children and how he used to send the whole Dunn family away for the holidays.

Other happy experiences which the former butler mentioned were at Christmas, when the President-elect would dress as Santa Claus and distribute presents to all the employes and their children at his home. Also at Easter time Hoover used to hide colored eggs in the garden and had all the children join with his own in searching for them.

Urges Less Sadness on Armistice Day

MRS CLARENCE R. EDWARDS, wife of "Daddy Edwards" who lead the Yankee Division through the major portion of its perilous days in France, gives me a message of comfort and good cheer for those bereaved ones who will observe Armistice Day in sorrow and prayer. "It is fitting and proper to blow taps on Memorial Day for the dead of all the wars," she says, "but this is the beginning of a new day and reveille should be sounded. It isn't fair to the next generation to have so much sadness; it is 10 years now since the war, and we owe it to those who have gone before to carry on to the very end, with a smile on our lips; even if there is no song in our hearts!"

I was impressed by the fact that this frail, gentle woman is living every day of her life, that which she advocates for others. She too, listens for a welfare-untethered voice, and sees in every flower, the beauty of a young, much-beloved daughter, living bravely she is "carrying on" in her work for disabled ex-service men. She says in the past five years they have turned back to the boys more than $175,000 from the shops where their handmade products are sold. Her dream is to see a chain of these stores in every state in the Union. She is a past department president of the American Legion auxiliary, president of the past presidents' association, life member of the Professional Women's Club, and chairman and organizer of the Disabled Ex-Service Men's Exchange which the auxiliary runs.

Mrs. C. R. Edwards

Sunday afternoon the American Legion auxiliary will participate in the parade which is being conducted under the auspices of the American Legion; Mrs. Edwards is to escort the disabled war veterans. The Bessie Edwards Cadets, in their attractive red and white uniforms, will be led by Miss Adelaide Fitzgerald, department president of the auxiliary, and captain of the drill team, which is named in honor of the heroic daughter of General and Mrs. Edwards. This, by the way, is the only all women's post in the service. 13,000 members of the auxiliary have been invited to participate, a large proportion of these being gold star mothers. Each member will wear a poppy as a reminder of Flanders Field.

NEED NEW BASE FOR AIRSHIPS

Washington, Nov. 9—With the signing of contracts for two new rigid airships, the Navy is confronted with the necessity of providing a second lighter-than-air base in the course of the next two or three years, according to Edward P. Warner, Assistant Secretary of the Navy, in charge of aeronautics.

The logical place for the second airship base is at some point on or near the Pacific Coast, Mr. Warner said. Several offers of sites have been received, some of which have been on terms that amount almost to a gift of the land to the Government.

Bride Does All the Marrying Today, Says Official

San Francisco, Nov. 9.—It's just the opposite, modern to what it used to be, with a marriage license now, that is. Until then, any girl may change her mind and get away. Not those of Cupid, high or low, but the license clerk says he is the busiest man in town. He's not the question, what the groom would say to the bride and the bride to the groom. Miss Mona asked "Will you marry me?" and he said "I do." Who's complaining? Not mine.

'BEN FRANKLIN' AGAIN STALKS HUB STREETS

The shade of Benjamin Franklin stalked today through the vaguely familiar surrounding of his nativity.

In long coat and breeches curls, no less stalwart in the shade than in the flesh, he flitted through Boston streets, now standing in solemn contemplation at the Milk street site of the house wherein he first saw light of day, now strolling, head bowed, through the old Granary Burying Ground, where sleep many of his old, staunch friends.

"Ben" Franklin, it was believed—who stood in meditation at the spot, now Association place, where once stood Franklin's printing office. "Ben" Franklin it was at the Old North Church and at Atlantic ave., near Oliver st., where tea and salt water merged once to a potent brew that was far from a king's taste.

THEN TO BACK BAY STATION

And the folk of a new generation and a new era, which meditates little upon kite strings and keys that while it pipes in electric rubies is followed I'm about Boston and wondered upon the reason for his return.

Into the Back Bay, the crowd trailed but by the time Franklin waited with him at the railroad station until a horse was found to and ride about to discuss the cause of "Ben" Franklin's return was made clear.

For from the train alighted that small army of husky youth whose tongue or toes up head on fort in an attempt to stop the increasingly relentless march of a football team that has found itself.

Travlwear Suits

Ana Why They Wear— and Wear!

This imported fabric will outwear any ordinary cloth, because of the tightly-twisted long-fibre threads, closely woven for greater strength. The beautiful lines of Travlwear suits endure as long as the fabric. Travlwear suits at $65 are now in the Store for Men — a splendid investment in

So becoming—

"Most becoming," said Daddy, noticing my new J. M. S. evening frock.

"Most becoming a habit, I'd say," big brother remarked slyly. "Near as I can make out she has a new J. M. S. costume every week."

"Well, it's a good habit," Mother rushed to my rescue. "As a matter of fact, she's spending less than usual for her clothes. She buys new ones with what used to go for alterations . . . things made smaller . . . sleeves shortened."

"Yes, I can see these sleeves don't need shortening," Daddy grinned at my no-sleeves.

"But we could tell he likes J. M. S. Clothes.

"All men do."

Jap Coronation Fete to Cost 12 Million

Kyoto, Japan, Nov. 9 (AP)—According to preliminary estimates, it will cost the Japanese government and the imperial family approximately about $12,000,000 to celebrate the accession to the throne of Hirohito, 124th emperor, in a manner deemed fitting to the august position to which he succeeds. The principal ceremony will be held tomorrow.

Listerine

—so powerful against germs

WHEN you get home from a football game, gargle immediately with Listerine full strength. It may spare you a dangerous siege with a cold or sore throat or both.

Listerine attacks the disease germs which get the upper hand when bodily resistance is lowered by exposure and nervous tension accompanying a football game.

Listerine is so powerful against germs that even the virulent B. Typhosus (typhoid) germ is killed by it in 15 seconds. Repeated tests show this.

For your own protection use Listerine after any exposure to cold weather or to crowds.

Let us send you our free book, "Personal Hygiene." Address Department S. 13, Lambert Pharmacal Company, St. Louis, Mo., U. S. A.

Avoid COLDS this way

Countless colds start when germs are carried to the mouth on food. By using Listerine on the hands before every meal, you attack such germs and lessen the risk of cold. Remember this, mothers, when handling baby's food.

CAVALLERIA 'R'DIOPERA' TONIGHT

By FRED TOYE, Radio Editor

GRAND OPERA in its most melodramatic manner will be served up to radio listeners on the Columbia System at 10 o'clock tonight, when the United Opera Company sings Mascagni's "Cavalleria Rusticana." The stridra which radio has taken in the past five years are no better illustrated than in the broadcasting of opera. Some years ago it was a rare treat to listen to the broadcast of a stage presentation of lyric drama. Microphones were placed in orchestra pit and at various points in the wings and in the [illegible] fil[illegible]ment of the [illegible] usual the [illegible] operator was frequently taken off guard and figuratively chased his artist all over the vast stage for the running theme.

MIKE MAGNIFIES DEFECTS OF STAGE PRESENTATIONS

[illegible] are still treat [illegible] as in the evening. Opera programs on Wednesday nights. Radio listeners and radio receivers have become more critical and sensitive, however. Nowadays we notice and are annoyed by background noises—by muteness of the source of melody, and by incompleteness of illusion. The Columbia System has learned that to be at its best for radio listening and viewing, [illegible] more than the real thing. Stage [illegible] are planned for quality of tone rather than for volume which grand opera demands. Real grand opera on the radio as broadcast from the stage of an opera house, suffers by the uncanny ability of the microphone to reproduce and magnify the harshness and shakiness of tone which are a part of the vocal technique of many first rate grand opera singers whereas studio opera sung by artists with small but sweet voices and performed in definite relation to the position of the [illegible] comes through in a way [illegible] full magnificence of the [illegible] the music being toned [illegible] at least two hundred [illegible] giving the listener all the important arias and the complete action of the [illegible] and suspended action.

SHOPPING HAZARDS

[illegible] shopping [illegible] data afford some surprising findings. Two local radio announcers were featuring the listening word shop choice items in two retail department stores yesterday and here's what one listener got during the [illegible] from one station to the other. Of course, there's hardly anything so unlikely as a garbage pail [illegible] vast [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]

"The Ladder"

The play "The Ladder," which comes to the Boston Opera House for a two weeks' engagement beginning Monday, November 12, has attracted wide comment. Here follows a brief history of the play.

"The Ladder" was first produced in New York, at the Mansfield Theatre on October 21, 1926. It did not meet with the approval of the theatre-going public, although there were leaders of thought who caught the idea and pronounced it excellent. However, as neither the producers nor the public were satisfied with the play, it was decided to offer it free of charge during the period of revision. During the seven months in which "The Ladder" was given free, it played to packed and enthusiastic houses. When "The Ladder" had reached a stage where its producers felt that it was in its best form, admission was charged, but the response of the paying public was so meagre that some performances were given to as few as ten persons.

In spite of two years of financial failure in New York the producers believe that "The Ladder" is a powerful play, as fundamental in its philosophy as the plays of the ancient Greeks and of adequate entertainment value.

Like all plays that contain something more than entertainment "The Ladder" brought out contradictory opinions from the critics. One pronounced it "awful"; one that "both acting and production were woefully unfinished"; while another reported it to be "effectively staged and played by a splendid cast. Most inspirational." One said "The play having many fine qualities is spoiled by the injection of an abstract problem," while another said "The audience took the play to heart and demonstrated their appreciation." One said "He (the producer) has at hand all the materials necessary to make a good play but doesn't know how to put them together," while another called it "structurally good."

The above references indicate something of the differences of opinion about the merits of "The Ladder." You may judge for yourself, for it has been decided to offer it to Boston at prices ranging from twenty-five cents to one dollar, money refunded if not satisfied. Mail and 'phone orders received now.

I'est [illegible] enjoy a better knowledge of [illegible] Reggie Brown.

Reggie Brown played a major role in Brown's victory over Dartmouth two years ago in Hanover. Brown threw the Green line out of gear by selling the officials the idea that because the Dartmouth linemen did not have their two hands on the ground within a foot of the line, they were not on the line of scrimmage. He is one of the country's keenest scouts and his advice is solicited by the smarter type of mentors.

Lou Clark, the former Newton High boy, has a fine opportunity to win his varsity letter at Dartmouth. Clark quarterbacked the freshman team last season but for some unknown reason he was shifted to half this fall. He has been a fourth or fifth string left halfback all season but injuries to Al Masters and Eddie Jeremiah moved him up to the second team.

Evers Is Back | Exciting Career
Braves Will Pep Up | Popular Here
Trojan Wonder | Sunday Baseball

By NICK FLATLEY

EVERS WILL PROVIDE PEP AT WIGWAM

THERE will be no depressing silence on the Wigwam diamond next summer when some hostile team is pasting the Braves. If the new manager lets that happen, there will be, rather, much noise and commotion. For John Evers is back with the Tribe and that naturally means excitement, even though the passing years have softened up the Trojan a bit.

Nick Flatley

Mister Evers, who will be first assistant to the would-be Miracle Manager, Judge Fuchs, has the greatest voice that sport has known. The bird who invented the word raucous must have been listening to Johnny debating with an umpire.

The Evers mind works quickly, and the voice carries its message to all points of the compass. It is a mezzo-bass, with what the boys call real timbre. It combines the growl of thunder with the sharp crack of the lightning. It has an undertone of snarl and hatred.

It delighted the Boston fans back in the glorious days of 1914. It will delight them once more in 1929. Fifteen years have filed very little from that voice, whatever they may have done to the fiery spirit of the owner.

It was Johnny's voice that won him a baseball job. He reported to Frank Selee of the great old Cubs back in 1902. He weighed all of 110 pounds, and looked like a jockey. Selee took one peek and opined that somebody was kidding him. He told his new athlete that he was too small to play.

"Yaah," roared the rookie, "why don't you wait and see?"

The volume of the retort almost blew the manager out of the room. He decided that a mosquito with that kind of an attachment would be an asset. And so he discovered one of the great geniuses of the national pastime. For 11 years Evers played second for the Cubs, and was one of the greatest stars on a team that is held up by many as the greatest ever.

JUDGE FUCHS HAS MANAGED TO LIVE WHILE OWNING THE BRAVES FOR FIVE YEARS. SO A SEASON ON THE BENCH SHOULDN'T BOTHER HIM.

My managers would spend my dough,
Lose games, and wildly curse,
So, now I'll take a chance myself;
I know I can't do worse.
—The Judge's Soliloquy.

EVERS' $50,000 STARTLED WORLD IN 1914

LITTLE JOHNNY EVERS is one of the most picturesque figures baseball brought onto the screen. He was in a million jams in the course of his career. He was baseball brains personified. The most famous bit of thinking in the game's history was staged by the Trojan that time Merkle forgot to touch second.

Jawn helped mightily when the Braves won their pennant and series, and won himself a lasting place in Boston's baseball heart. The gang will be glad to see him back. The wise boys don't hesitate to say that the Trojan will be the real manager. They chuckle about the Judge Fuch's stunt, but refuse to take it seriously. Which shows they do not know the Judge.

Mister Evers has done quite a bit of managing. He was boss of the Cubs in 1913, after Chance had been deposed. He had a famous fight with Charles Webb Murphy, eccentric club owner. Evers threatened to sue for $25,000 and the row was settled when Jim Gaffney bought him for the Braves, paying the $25,000 as a bonus when John signed.

That year Evers, with the bonus, salary and World Series profits, took in almost $50,000, which was a seven days' wonder in the sport world. Nothing like it had been heard of. Nowadays half a dozen diamond stars do better.

The Trojan managed the Cubs after his Boston experience, and also had a shot with the White Sox. But bad health and poor clubs stopped him. He has picked up 30 pounds since his last venture, and is sure that all is okay now.

Happen what will, Johnny will lend some color to affairs at the big yard. And it's needed.

All baseball needs, it seems to me,
The word has gone out to the fans,
The boys all are girding themselves
For Evers is back with the Braves.

Attention of schoolboy football fandom will be devided between two games tomorrow; the Exeter Andover and the Waltham-Medford conflict.

Chicago, Nov. 9 (AP)—Reptile tracks made more than 200,000,000 years ago and found last summer on a slab of Pennsylvania sandstone in Wyoming were described Tuesday by Dr. Ernst R. Lull, curator of the Yale museum. The specimens, they said, are the most ancient found west of the Appalachians.

The tracks were identified as those made by a Eryops, Wyo., by museum students studying rock formation. Photographs of the tracks, showing the print of the reptile's footpad, have been studied by Prof. Lucas. The slab is to be brought to the museum

BLIND OPENING LEADS AGAIN A SUBJECT OF DISCUSSION

PARTNER having made no bid, the leader should lead his own longest suit.

Exceptions can arise when leader's longest suit has been bid by an opponent, in which case leader must consider the fact that in opening it he is giving it for the asking.

Other exceptions may arise when the leader has a very weak suit and has no reason to suppose that partner holds a powerful suit. For example, if the bidding has been as follows: Leader, A K J x x; dummy, x x x; partner, x x x; opponent, bids one spade; leader, pass; opponent, bids two spades; leader, pass; opponent, bids three spades; BE A LADY DETECTIVE!

Why be a Stay-at-Home—an Alice-Sit-by-the-Fire?

Be a Lady Detective! Lots of fun. We train you to go through other people's mail—tip-toe behind faithless husbands, and listen in through transoms on all kinds of goings-on. Fascinating! And big money, too.

And perhaps you may meet your Dream Man while hiding behind furniture and around corners. Address—

Conversation overheard on a bus:

She—Albert, that man is trying to flirt with me.

He—What man?

She—That young man—the well-dressed man across the aisle and back of us.

He—Oh, I don't think so.

She—Albert, I demand that you put a stop to his outrageous conduct.

He—Forget it.

She—How can I forget it! Each time I look around he looks me right in the eye. I was never so humiliated in my life.

ON WEDNESDAY GO AS FAR AS YOU LIKE

(Melrose County Miner)

On Tuesday the fire truck belonging to the fire department will be for a short while under temporary repair due to the changing of the tires as the truck is to be equipped with new tires all around. Fire Chief Don George requests that extreme caution be exercised on this day so that no catastrophe may occur.

BULLETIN

(News Item)

KANSAS CITY—Nickels, dimes and quarters valued at $5000 and slot machines containing coins are on the bottom of the Missouri River here.

Machines and money were thrown into the river by officers who confiscated them. The police are not allowed to open confiscated machines.

Collegiate football trains young men for the future. By listening to a coach between halves they get some idea how the average wife talks.

Remember when—

Football players wore padded pants down to their ankles?

Now they go around with their stockings rolled down—like flappers.

Remember when—

Football players let their hair grow to protect their heads and wore nose guards?

Whimmie—

Pity the little angleworm—
He doesn't know which way to turn;
The early bird sits on yor tree—
The fisherman digs eagerly:
Oh, watch him writhe and twist and squirm,
The hapless little angleworm.

Adam Scoffaw's Journal

This days, my spill-dime brother-in-law sprain his ankle (but not his appetite) so that he will sit himself in my easy chair for an fortnight, and now that he hath sprained his ankle he hath two sprains, counting his sprained head. And methinks the greedy gut will sprain his neck from the way he guzzle my spinach wine.

SMART SAYINGS OF CLEVER CHILDREN

Sue got her first peek at her new baby brother.

"Well, how do you like him?" asked her daddy.

"Fine!" exclaimed Sue. "I got tired of playing with sawdust dolls, I'm glad to get a real one this time."

MEDBURY SAYS

By JOHN P. MEDBURY

IT'LL be wonderful if there's really such a thing as reincarnation so that the egotists can come back and read the praises on their tombstones.

The Unfair Sex

The woman who wouldn't let her husband put sugar in his coffee for fear he'd scratch the cup.

Social Accomplishments

A man's idea of putting something aside for a rainy day is marrying a rich widow.

American Tragedies

The stout lady who used to bend horses so badly in the middle that the livery stable had to sell them for camels.

Excuse It, Please

Don't blame your husband if he gets home late from the banquet. Maybe he overslept.

You're Wrong

You wouldn't call a patrolman's shoes a pair of police dogs.

Matrimonial Martyrs

The stenographer who said she had to have a raise because her husband wanted to go to Europe.

Take It or Leave It

There's one thing about attending a performance at the guillotine, you can't go out between the ax.

Wonders of Nature

The average man rides so much in taxicabs nowadays that it's hard for a son to follow in his father's footsteps.

Ideal Dumb-bells

The fellow who stood under a weeping willow tree and tried to get a shower bath.

You're Right

'Tis better to have loved and lost than to have married and still be losing.

Our Own Vaudeville

Guest—So you hated to see me get married?

Host—Yes. I couldn't have felt worse if it had been my own wedding.

CORNS CURED FOR 10 CENTS

Why Suffer With Corns—Pay Dime—Pain Stops and Out Comes Corn.

RESULTS GUARANTEED NEWEST, BEST REMEDY

No bulky doughnut pads or burning acids—get an envelope of O-Joy Corn Wafers for a dime. Thin as paper, press one on the corn with finger and it sticks there. Shoes don't hurt. Pain is gone immediately. Dance if you wish, no bother, fuss or danger. Later, in the bath, out comes corn, callous, roots and all. Like magic. Everyone is going wild over O-Joys. Broadway was overjoyed; you will be, too. Six O-Joy Wafers for a dime at druggists.

BAER FACTS

by Arthur "Bugs" Baer

AN old-established Chinkadee claims to be worth 250 years.

That's plenty of chronological plunder for any one man to pack around on his gears.

The veteran rice plunger's name is Chung-Yun. He claims to have been born in 1678.

His story is robustly remarkable.

He has yards of proof. He says even at that early age in 1678 he was a Chinaman.

Nobody can dispute facts like those. If you dispute stories of great age in Chinese circles all you've got to do is to look at some of those laundry bundles on the top shelf.

Chung-Yun has four rules for longevity.

1. Keep a quiet heart.
2. Sit like a tortoise.
3. Walk sprightly like a pigeon.
4. Sleep like a dog.

And after you do all that, marry an animal trainer.

What use is a quiet heart when you live near the elevated, a Ford factory and a public playground?

And squatting like a tortoise would be great. Especially when the boss came in and found you doing some turtle setting-up exercises when you should be working like a beaver.

Walking sprightly like a pigeon is easy. One slug of bootleg and you will flutter like a dove.

Sleeping like a dog is more difficult because it is hard to get both legs under your chin.

We always claimed that our own rules for long life were more beneficial and practical.

1. Never carry a bundle by the string.
2. Count your fingers after shaking hands with a Philadelphia lawyer.
3. Never sleep with the windows open when you are in a submarine.
4. Keep your feet dry when taking a bath.

DEBTS WE CAN'T REPAY

By LUCY LOWELL

THERE are, for all of us debts that we never can repay. The kindly, encouraging work someone gave us unexpectedly one time when we had need of kindness and encouragement—this is one of those. The expression of good will coming straight from some friendly heart—oh, yes, this is a debt we will owe as long as we live, to the friend or acquaintance or out and out stranger who gave it.

The smile which crossed some face like a flash of light penetrating the murk of self-centeredness or gloom or error drawn about ourselves—this is another entry on the debit side of life's ledger. And how large the charge to our account depends upon how great was our need of that illumination at the time it pierced our darkness, certainly it is an entry never to be effaced even if we would have it so.

The understanding offered when all about us was criticism and harsh-speaking and hatred—this is perhaps, the most unrepayable debt of all. For understanding is beauty and joy and peace it is good will and friendship and love all in one—and the rock upon which there may be new beginnings, the foundation of new endeavors to reach the heights.

Debts we never can repay—and yet I wonder! Would it now be possible to discharge these debts by passing them along to others?

If we give the kindly word, the smile, understanding to those who need them so, would not this repay those others who gave them to us?

ONCE-OVERS

By J. J. MUNDY

BECAUSE you want to be popular you have become one of the "yes" men.

And if you have followed this course through life, perhaps you are beginning to realize that your opinion is no longer sought on important matters.

You don't like to think so you agree with those you wish to impress or you follow the majority, rather than make the extra effort it requires to form a practical, sound opinion of your own.

Can you bring to mind a single man who has been a success who has not had opinions of his own and was not afraid to express them?

When circumstances demand your ideas be ready with them.

If you have not advanced as you should it may be that you employ or feels that you are too prone to agree with him.

The right kind of employer wants a man who has ideas that are helpful.

But also he wants a man who has an honest opinion and who will give it to him when asked in the interests of business.

The "yes" man is of no special help to him when he needs advice.

The rose topped the list, for the third successive year, in a flower popularity census taken in 250 schools in New York State. This flower received nearly half the 800,000 votes recorded, next coming the carnation, the tulip and the violet.

The Lynn Disaster

Last of Its Kind in Massachusetts IF We Are Both Wise and Courageous

Just as it took an Iroquois Theater fire to bring the asbestos curtain into universal use, and a Collingswood schoolhouse holocaust to give life to the law which provides that schoolhouse doors must open outwards, so we may expect ultimate good to come from the Lynn explosion which on Thursday took toll of fifteen lives.

On the premises of the Preble-Eaton Box Toe factory fire inspectors report the finding of such combustible liquids as acetone, alcohol, rubber cement and amyl-acetone. There IS a story that a foreman dropped a live cigar on the floor of the chemical room.

The foreman is dead.

Mayor Bauer suggests the revokement of every permit for the use of explosives in a building shared with other manufacturers, or in any building not 500 feet removed from its nearest neighbor.

Varied suggestions may be expected to come from Fire Marshal Neal and his deputies and assistants. From these and perhaps other sources members of the Legislature should be able to assemble such facts as may be needful in the drafting of helpful legislation.

The story of the Lynn disaster was doubly moving because of the five Blaney children who perished with their young mother, leaving the father and four other children desolate.

Out of our own experience, and with the newspaper accounts before us, most of us were able to reconstruct and visualize the early morning scene in a busy household.

Mother was getting the younger children—except the baby—"dressed for school." Ella, 18, had gone to her work in a shoe factory. Harry, 17, and Norman, 14, too big to need help, were slicking up before the bell should ring. Lillian, 12, had gone out for the morning paper.

Mother was singing, perhaps, stopping only to remind Arthur, 10, to be sure and wash back of his ears. The baby was cooing. And then——! Harry Blaney has described it:

"There wasn't any warning; all we know was there was something terrible—a crash, a lot of dust, clouds of smoke and then fire.

"Mama grabbed the younger children to lead them out the back door. She was nearer that door. We ran for the front door. Almost before we stirred, the side of the house next to the box toe shop filled with fire and smoke.

"It was only partly dressed. He and we jumped or fell into the street and it seemed we were lost in the roar of another explosion. The next thing we knew we were being rushed to the hospital. We haven't seen Mama since we saw her start for the back door with the other kids, when all at once the house seemed to be leaning apart and filling with fire."

That the good people of Lynn and the surrounding cities and town will do what they can to bind up the wounds of the Blaneys and other sufferers may be taken for granted. Charity, brotherly love, neighborliness, NEVER fail when they KNOW.

But this disaster never should have been permitted to happen.

There is no room for modern industry and the tenement house in the same immediate neighborhood.

Dangerous chemicals and helpless children do not belong on the same block.

Mayor Bauer has stated the proposition one way; let us attempt to put it in another:

No building or part of a building should be used as a dwelling, either by the owner or by tenants, within 500 feet of any other building within which the use of explosives has been authorized by the proper authorities.

We Don't Believe It

Dr. Charles Hose Says There Are No Wild Men of Borneo

Dr. Charles Hose, returning from the Far East, asserts that there are no wild men of Borneo, and that the island contains neither cannibals nor head hunters. Dr. Hose lived there twenty years, and speaks with the authority of observation and experience.

Just the same, we do not believe it. Every schoolboy knows that the principal product of Borneo is wild men, even as the essential industry of Circassia is Circassian beauties and not Circassian walnut, as the insidious propaganda of furniture makers would have us think. The interior of Brazil is populated by Amazon women, who gave the great river its name, and who defend it against pale invaders with their lives. The loveliest women in the world live in the South Sea isles. Sea serpents lurk in the Mediterranean depths and mermaids lure seamen to death on the rocks of the North Sea coast. Leprechauns still dwell in Irish bogs.

No, Dr. Hose is wrong about the wild men of Borneo, but it is not his fault. He wasn't able to see them—that's all. The power to see such creatures is not given to many men; but they exist, all the same, and nobody is going to talk us out of it.

Misgivings

England's retiring Primate, the Archbishop of Canterbury, questioned the forcefulness of the Church of England on plain moral questions in his farewell sermon. He is the first to resign from his historic position.

He did not regard the prayer book issue now disturbing the Church of England as "the outstanding fact."

He said:

"But are you satisfied about the forcefulness of the church on plain moral questions—the problems of married life, the temptations of unmarried life, straightforwardness in industry, or in civic and social fields? Is its witness fearless? I know full well the difficulties, but, do we face them frankly and courageously, I ask myself, and my answer gives me qualms."

Parking Their Planes

Long Island, New York, has the first Aviation Country Club to be established in the country.

Members will fly out to play golf or tennis or dance, as today, but instead of parking their automobiles, they will run their planes into hangars.

The stupendous revolution in social and business life, living conditions and real estate values which was brought about by the automobile will be repeated now by the airplane.

Kant and a dozen other philosophers deny the reality of time and space. Whether real or not, man is rapidly abolishing their limitations.

New York Day by Day

by O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, Nov. 9—Thoughts while strolling: Dorothy Knapp, the highly advertised "most beautiful girl in the world." And very near that. Who remembers when money was called spondulix? Jules Bache, the banker and his monocle.

The theater with a row of seats equipped with phones for the deaf. Wesley W. Stout, a Kansas City (Mo.) boy, who made good in the city. Lads sporting sideburns to appear Argentine-ish. Very few nat cleaning shops any more. The pet white owl that rides with a taxi driver.

Sign: "Colds cured while you wait." Life becomes more is details every day. Displays of Palm Beach things. The site of the new Metropolitan Opera House—and a lot of snakeskins will have to move. From whispering to yelling, as it were. And that's not so good, either.

Anna Held's step-eyed daughter. Stocky booking agents. With tightly gripped cigars. A man with a wrist watch swinging a pick. A lunch shop called "The Liberty." A double-breasted suit called "The Herbert Hoover." The columnist who wears a red tie and poses as a cynic.

Nothing so clumsy as a sheep dog. Winter is here—Al Jolson brings out his belted leather coat. The East Side gunman known as "The Tarantula"—the red spot on his cheek having been made by the sting of one. Wonder what that guy gets a week for wearing a uniform and looking important?

A steam roller driver eating lunch and reading Ludwig's "Napoleon." Sulka, the haberdasher. Sometimes I think I'll take up golfing. And then I spend an evening with those bores who have. Fuzzie: Find the Broadway entrance to the Hotel Astor. The soda clerks have gone south. New faces.

The Paramount clock only eight seconds wrong. Harry Acton, who goes out to sea to meet ships. Cool winds at dusk. Freighted with the salty tang of the sea. The buoyancy of home-going crowds. Color, zip, speed and dazzle. What a town!

THAT Broadway slang for an important person—the big shot—is a phrase out of Hollywood by the well-known Roscoe Arbuckle.

BROADWAY refuses to permit others to select its celebrities. Had even Lindbergh arrived in Boston first he would have found enthusiasm cooling by the time he reached New York. If Broadway bestows the first back slap the hero is taken to its bosom—otherwise how have you been?

A notable example is Paul Ash, a mouth jizz orchestra leader with a mop of wavy red hair brought from Chicago to grace a large cinema temple as master of ceremonies. In Chicago he was knee deep in daisies. Women neglected housework under the spell of his "IL." Flappers cried for him.

No entertainer had received such an advance fanfare of publicity. He was trumpeted with bands and received by welcoming committees in braided cutaways, winding up in a parade through town. New York only yawned. Mr. Ash was somewhat of a flop. His "IL" became "IU."

PAUL WHITEMAN was famous on the west coast before he came to town, but he sneaked into the old Palais Royal with practically no local buttering or ballyhoo. His success was instantaneous. New York thought it had discovered him.

THERE are innumerable entertainers clicking out yonder who fled through sledding if they arrive in New York on an avalanche of press puffs. New York isn't jealous exactly. Wonderful weather we are having!

THE busiest orchestra leader this season is Vincent Lopez. He begins the evening in the St. Regis grill, appears later in Earl Carroll's revue, and from there to Woodman sten Inn until closing. During spare time he records for phonographs and piano rolls. Senor Lopez is a Spanish hidalgo from Brooklyn and can do more things with a piano than Ed Wynn used to do with a hat.

A WEALTHY elderly widow recently married a notorious young rake. At the Players' club that evening her grown son was asked: "How do you like your new pa?"

"You mean," he replied gloomily, "my faux pas?"

LISTEN, WORLD!

By ELSIE ROBINSON

EVEN the smallest bridge is a strange and stirring sight. There one may read the whole story of human evolution and each man's little tale of gain or loss.

A bridge—think of how much happened before that bridge was built. Think far, far back——

Little men standing jabbering on the shore of a stream. Little hairy men with low foreheads and almost empty eyes, jabbering because an obstacle stopped their restless feet. Two shores and nothing for which they could cross. Then slowly an idea forming in their narrow brains. Little men fumbling with thought like monkeys with a strange fruit. Monkey brains starting to build—starting to build a picture of something that would make a trail from shore to shore. And, presently, out of that need, out of that idea, a crude fabric of tree trunks lashed with thongs.

So the bridge grew. So all bridges have grown. First the need—then the picture shaping in the brain—then the will to do—and finally an arc outlining against the sky, that arc which first took shape within the fumbling brain.

Bridge building—that is the story of human evolution. Spans that would carry men from one shore to another. Each onward effort that man has made in his long progress was a bridge. When the first, feeble, scaly creature grew a pair of limbs so it could breathe the air, that was a bridge. A bridge between the slime and freer life. When fins became a tiny pair of legs, another bridge was built—and life climbed higher toward the sun.

LIFE CLIMBED AS FAST AS IT COULD WISH AND THINK. When men came to the place where they desired something better than dirt caves, and set themselves to plan a finer form of house, then they went forward on the bridge of their desire. WHAT MAN IMAGINES AND DESIRES HE CAN HAVE—that is the story of human evolution.

That is the story of your life and mine. Life is a series of gaps and obstacles from birth to death. We progress according to our ability to bridge those gaps. Some of us stop very early in the game. Bridge building is hard and dangerous. We refuse to take the risk. We are content to stay on our safe, accustomed shore. The farther shore seems very beautiful. We envy the people who are there—we envy the people who have achieved power and freedom and success. But we cannot throw out a bridge from our own minds and hearts and grapple that farther shore. So we stay where we are and for us the trail is ended. It is ended quite as effectually as if we had died. But others go on and on, facing gaps and building bridges to their last gasp.

Think of the struggle that lies behind bridges the next time you see one. Think of the bridges you have built in your life—and of those you haven't built.

Boston American's Policies For Boston-New England

FOR BOSTON:

1—Clean streets.
2—Solution of traffic and parking problems.
3—Better pay for honest public service.
4—An airport SECOND TO NONE.
5—Erection of a MUNICIPAL AUDITORIUM to compare with any in the land, in order that Boston properly supplied with first-class hotels, may be the premier convention city of the U. S. A.

FOR NEW ENGLAND:

1—Weld the six States into a unit through the activities of the New England Council, thus creating a community consciousness.
2—Promote intercourse with Central and South America, encouraging New Englanders to "turn to the sea" again.
3—Keeping everlastingly at the job of telling the rest of the country all about our unique advantages as Summer and Winter Playground of the Nation.
4—Foster the prosperity of our industries through (1) greater efficiency in production and (2) the use of modern methods in merchandising.
5—Promote in every way such natural resources as forests, water powers and fisheries.
6—Assist New England agriculture to better marketing methods.

"Even as You and I"

By Herbert Kaufman

Once upon a time an unwary man was suddenly beset, his brain stolen, his pocket rifled, left stripped, cold and hungry to face the night.

"Why do you abuse me in this heartless manner?" wailed the resourceless wretch.

"Tit for tat," came the answer from the shadow. "You robbed me of my expectations and squandered the handful of money with which I hoped to purchase simple comforts. Year after year I vainly begged a slight percentage of your ample earnings—besought you to carry a double purse: one for present and one for future. A dime out of each dollar, held in trust against my coming, would have satisfied my few modest wants and perhaps held me at bay.

"But you played the glutton and profligate. Occasional self-denial and reasonable thrift were the utmost I looked for.

"You cleaned my plate and yours, too, burned my fire and yours, too, spent my strength and yours, too.

"The least continence and forethought would have deferred my arrival another decade, but you frittered energy as well as income, neglected the very rudiments of sane living and now that your body and mind are prematurely worn, they haven't the power to resist attack."

"Who are you? Have you no pity? Give me another chance," cried the man.

"Too late, I pay in kind," answered the other. "Ask me no mercy, improvident fool. I am Old Age."

The Wings of Fame

Maecenas has dodged oblivion solely through mention by a poet whom he deigned to patronize.

What names endure from all that lordly company of merchant princes whose galleys crowded Syracuse when Archimedes drew his angles on the sands?

Lorenzo de Medici's genius, not his fortune, survived the centuries.

Who remembers the richest man of Raleigh's day or even one of the thousand purse-proud bucks Arkwright pomaded?

Empty lives and crowded coffers pass unnoted through the glass of Time. Not a vital line of history is lettered in gold—the ink of Eternity is blent of sweat and blood. Tomorrow only inherits the memory of sacrifice and attainment.

Pomposity and rapacity are soon forgot. But splendid deeds and useful thoughts are feathers for the wings of Fame.

WORDS OF THE WISE MEN

A man ought to read just as inclination leads him; for what he reads as a task will do him little good. —Johnson.

Nothing is impossible to industry. —Periander.

Reputation is an idle and most false imposition; oft get without merit, and lost without deserving. —Shakespeare.

Whatever we conceive well we express clearly, and words flow with ease. —Boileau.

Virtue is the highest reward. Virtue truly goes before all things. Liberty, safety, life, property, parents, country and children, are protected and preserved. Virtue has all things in herself to Who has the supream. —Milton.

virtue has all things that are good attending him. —Plautus.

Men love to ponder and that is seed of our science. —Emerson.

A man may outwit another, but not all the others. —La Rochefoucauld.

The greatest trust between man and man is the trust of giving counsel. —Bacon.

One hour's sleep before midnight worth three after. —Herbert.

Who ever saw old age which did not praise the past time, and blame the present? —Montaigne.

Truth is as impossible to be soiled by any outward touch any as the sunbeam. —Milton.
